Between Faith and Criticism Mark A. Noll 2009-10-01 Mark Noll traces evangelization from its nineteenth-century roots. He applies lessons learned in the milieu of Great Britain and early America to the present day. A New Evangelization is, in this regard, a book for both specialists and a general audience. Mark A. Noll, the multitalented Professor of Christian Thought and professor of church history at Wheaton College, has written more than ten books, including Religion in America: A History (co-authored with Mark Noll), The History of Christianity: A Global Introduction (co-authored with David George Gordon), and Christianity in the Modern World (with David Fish). "A New Evangelization is a work that will be of interest to anyone who wants to know what the background to current evangelical scholarly is, and who want to explore the likely developments in the future."
