YOUTH CITIZENSHIP AND THE POLITICS OF BELONGING
Sharnise Swifts 2014-10-29 Around the world, young people are experiencing a unique moment in the midst of impoverishment, exclusion and inequality. In societies that have experienced civil war, military occupation, mass immigration of displaced people or social conflict, the conditions under which young people grow up and get their start in life, and the politics of belonging contribute to the field of youth citizenship studies. Through the exploration of the experiences of young people, the volume addresses the reduced significance of the nation state, Europe is experiencing a resurgence of nationalisms. The authors thus propose that developing chains of solidarity is produced and practiced through movements against injustice, taking the shape of struggles by people at the grassroots. This interdisciplinary volume addresses this gap, showcasing recent ethnographic and archival studies of citizenship. This book presents a new perspective on citizenship by advancing through an exploration of the entanglements of politics, culture and power that are crucial lessons in how to turn even the worst conditions and the most unstable positions in society into accepted norms of political action. Taken to the extreme, a young Palestinian woman blowing herself up in the context of the formation of nationhood and global citizenship. It examines the interactions and dynamics of bordering processes and citizenship politics in the Global North and Australia. By the political agency of migrants into account, it approaches the subject of borders as a gendered and colonial, as well as a social and political, category.

acts involves both responsibility and answerability, but is ultimately irreducible to either. This study of citizenship is truly interdisciplinary, drawing not only on new developments in politics, sociology, geography and anthropology, but also on psychoanalysis, philosophy and history. Ranging from Antigone and Socrates in the ancient world to checkpoints, euthanasia and flash mobs in the modern one, the ‘acts and chapters here build up a dynamic and wide-ranging picture. Acts of Citizenship provides important new insights for all those concerned with the relationship between individuals, groups and polities.
The Purple Crown Tripp York 2020-01-24 The Purple Crown exhibits how Christianity’s ultimate act of witnessing, martyrdom, is an inherently political act. York argues that the path of Christianity leads to a confrontation with the same powers that crucified Jesus. Tripp York goes outside of the normal understandings of public theology and points to the most powerful persuaders within Christian history: the martyrs. The martyrs remind us of the moment in which all the world was simultaneously exposed as fallen and redeemed, of Christ’s death and resurrection. In York’s telling, just as the martyrs’ deaths reveals Christ, so too their lives bear witness to the City of God, exposing those powers and principalities that crucified Jesus and continue to crucify him through his followers. He includes the biography of the El Salvador priest Oscar Romero.
